KANJI GLYPH COLLECTIONS AND GLYPH SETS

Technical Note #5031

PREFACE

This catalog of more than 8,000 kanji glyphs contains all of the graphic representations of characters in the Adobe® Standard Japanese Glyph Complement.

A glyph is the printed version of a character. The glyph complement contains all glyphs that a font developer can support for PostScript Kanji printers. The purpose of this complement is to show developers of Japanese fonts which glyphs to develop and in which order.

A single PostScript Japanese typeface is implemented as a number of composite fonts, each with a different combination of character sets and encoding. The glyph sets required for these composite fonts overlap. Also, different computer systems and applications require different character sets and encodings. Therefore, a font developer who wishes to address only a few computer systems and applications needs to implement only the glyphs from the relevant collections.

Glyphs are organized by sets consisting of those glyphs needed to implement a composite font with a specific character set and encoding. This glyph complement organizes glyph sets into 11 collections according to design or usage, to meet the special needs of font developers and typography manufacturers. The collections are described as follows.

Collection 1: Full-width JIS 83 Level 1 Glyphs

This collection contains 3,318 Japanese Industrial Standard (JIS) level 1 glyphs, including kanji glyphs, 66 Cyrillic glyphs, 48 Greek glyphs, 62 roman glyphs, and 40 mathematical symbols. These glyphs are supplied as parts of other collections. This collection does not include hiragana in row 4, katakana in row 5, generic line-drawing glyphs in row 8, and the single kana extender glyph in row 1.

Collection 2: Full-width JIS 83 Level 2 Glyphs

This collection contains all JIS level 2 kanji glyphs, totaling 3,388 glyphs.

Collection 3: Full-width Kana Glyphs

The full-width kana glyphs consist of 198 kana glyphs including the pseudo-kana extender and vertical extender in row 1 of JIS (i.e., hiragana vu, small ka, small ke, etc.). This collection has been separated from the JIS glyphs to allow development of variant kana styles for a given design of kanji glyphs.

Collection 4: Full-width Line-drawing and Generic Symbols

This collection consists of 111 glyphs that combine the glyphs in row 8 of JIS with several additional line-drawing glyphs for the Mincho-PC-Hiragana and Mincho-PC-Katakana fonts. These glyphs are essential only for backwards compatibility with existing NEC word processing applications.

Collection 5: Half-width Roman Glyphs

The half-width roman glyphs collection contains 94 standard glyphs and 48 additional glyphs. This collection is designed for word processing applications rather than for high-quality typography.

Collection 6: Half-width Kana Glyphs

This collection contains 179 glyphs. These glyphs are generic, and may be used by font developers who choose not to design their own half-width kana. Both serif (Mincho) and sans-serif (Gothic) styles are available from Adobe. Half-width kana glyphs are generally used by PC and word processing applications. Font developers who expect heavy demand for their half-width kana glyphs may choose to design their own. Other developers may choose to use the generic designs in this collection to provide PC and word processing support with minimal effort.

Collection 7: Half-width Line-drawing and Generic Symbols

This collection consists of 78 glyphs necessary for specific OEM customers. These glyphs are essential only for backwards compatibility with existing word processing applications.

Collection 8: Full-width and Half-width Face-specific Symbols

This collection contains 350 glyphs that include 100 glyphs for the Apple and NEC glyph sets, 14 additional Ext and NWP composite font glyphs for NEC, 115 glyphs for the NEC WP-Symbol fonts, and 118 glyphs for the Fujitsu Add glyph set. These glyphs have been incorporated into one collection due to their strong logical relations.

Collection 9: JIS 78 Kanji Glyphs

This collection contains 250 kanji glyphs present in the JIS 78 standard but not in the JIS 83 standard. Although the JIS 78 standard is obsolete and is not implemented as a composite font, it is included in this collection because it is still a common subset of several glyph collections.

Collection 10: The NEC Kanji Glyphs

This collection consists of 8 kanji glyphs that are not included in the JIS 83 and JIS 78 collections.

Collection 11: The Fujitsu Kanji Glyphs

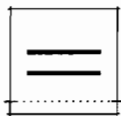

This collection contains 42 kanji glyphs that are not included in the JIS 83 and JIS 78 collections.
